

Loss of Licence Insurance

It is imperative that commercial pilots, flying instructors and air traffic controllers have appropriate insurance in place to provide cover in the event of their loss of licence either by accident or illness.

Loss of Licence Insurance

Provides cover akin to a standard accident and disability insurance. However, due to its very nature, it is a bespoke cover written specifically for those in the aviation field. Cover can be arranged for either permanent or temporary loss of licence.

Typically cover can be offered for:

Permanent total disablement – a lump sum payment following an accident / event or illness which means that the licence is permanently revoked.

Temporary total disablement – generally a weekly or monthly payment designed to replace lost income following an accident or illness, where the licence is temporarily revoked.

Optional additional covers

Accidental death – a lump sum benefit payable following the death of the insured person after an accident.

Information required to obtain terms:

We are happy to discuss your requirements by telephone or alternatively we can provide you with a short proposal form to complete.

The HSBC advantage

HSBC Insurance Brokers has extensive knowledge and experience in the provision of these covers. We have experience in designing specific solutions for our clients and, with access to the Lloyd's and London markets, can arrange cover for clients' individual needs in most territories of the world. We have a number of facilities in place which enable us to provide both a fast turnaround as well as competitive terms for all types of cover. Alternatively, subject to certain criteria, we are able to place binding authorities and facilities for coverholders in the Lloyd's and London markets.

Generally, all risks can be arranged on either a direct or reinsurance basis.
